

What Are the Latest BIS Certification Rules You Must Know in 2025?

In India, product safety is not just a recommendation — it's a requirement. Whether you're making toys, electronics, or household products, it's important that your items meet quality and safety standards. That's where BIS Certification comes in.

The Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS) is the national body that sets quality standards for products in India. If a product meets those standards, it receives BIS certification. In 2025, there are some new and updated rules that every manufacturer, importer, and seller must follow.

Let's take a look at the latest BIS certification rules in 2025, especially for people involved in manufacturing, selling online, or importing goods into India.

What is BIS Certification?

BIS Certification proves that a product meets Indian safety, quality, and performance standards. It builds trust between the consumer and the company.

There are different types of BIS certifications, depending on the product and where it is made. The four main types are:

- ISI Mark Registration in India (for Indian manufacturers)
- BIS CRS Certification in India (for electronic and IT goods)
- BIS FMCS (for foreign manufacturers)
- BIS Certification for Toys online (specifically for toy sellers and manufacturers)

Now let's explore what's new in 2025.
